Section
Sixteen

Copyright, 1906, by M. M. O'Connell

Clifton glanced down at the car at the last section. Somehow it irritated him. Last night the chap who had that section had beaten him at pounce. He might find diversion and revenge if the sheephead would only tumble out and recognize the fact that it was broad daylight.

The night before the car had been well filled. All through the night they had dropped off at the way stations, and Clifton thought viciously of the place in his section who had stopped on a bench at 3 o'clock. So far this morning he had the sleeper to himself, save for the occupant of section 11.

He finished the breakfast that had been served from the buffet and strolled down the car. Reaching through the curtains, he gave the shoulder a shake. "Wake up, old man," he shouted. "Your alarm clock's broken, I guess."

There was a muffled feminine shriek, and the porter came dashing around the corner from his tiny kitchen.

"Waffer you wake dat lady?" he demanded. "You all ain't got no right to wake a lady waffer."

"There was a man went to bed in there," exclaimed Clifton. "How is it to know that he wasn't there yet?"

"Dat gamman yo' done play cards wif las' night?" demanded the porter. "He done get off at Palla Crossin' station."

"His lady lady done come on board two hours ago. She shuah ain't waffer."

"Tell her 'I'm sorry,'" commanded Clifton, backing away. "I was lone, and I thought I'd put that chap out. 'I am awfully sorry.'"

He went back to his own section, and the porter, mollified by the bill slipped into his hand, made full explanation to the unseen occupant.

Clifton settled himself savagely in his seat and fixed his eyes on the berth. He wondered what the woman might look like. Her voice sounded like she was young. More than that he could not keep his mind on the magazine, and at last he lay down and gave himself up to meditation. He knew that if he brooded on the subject he would be unfit for business or anything else. He must sleep, he thought. Perhaps he might trace her through the conductor of the train. She must have come on board about 7 o'clock. Perhaps she had a ticket and line and found out from the ticket agent. He had about decided upon that scheme when there came a knock at the door, and he went to see what it was. A lady thrust a telegram into his hand and stood waiting to see if there was an answer. Clifton broke the seal listlessly, then gave a shout. The message ran:

"Come home, you silly. Bess Winton was the girl in section 16. She ate your name up. That's what she was. Bess Winton."

"Any answer?" asked the girl, fidgeting first on one foot and then on the other.

"I hope the answer will be 'yes,'" said Clifton absently. "I mean," he went on quickly, "yes, there's an answer." And he stretched out his hand for the blank.

Corot and the Prince de Jolville.

"I thank you, Corot," said the prince, holding out his hand. "After this, I loved me to renew my youth in seeing your works. And, look, I see there an old acquaintance, your picture of Bessie in her old mantle."

"That is not Bessie," said the prince. "How is the name of goodness can you remember the date—yep, who have seen so many things since that time?"

"And the critic Delucchi," replied the prince, "replied you a great deal on this subject. But it touched you very little, and you were right. And this lovely, delicate study—you must have made it in the neighborhood of Geneva?"

"Indeed, I did," belittled Corot in his great voice. "You are gifted with second sight. For ten years now I have searched in my old studio for the place where I did that, and it needed you, mon prince, to come and tell me."

"That, M. Corot," answered the prince, "is a beautiful, beautiful, beautiful sketch of those beautiful mountains more than ten times, and I know them by heart. There is another study over there of a mountain, and it is gray and very true. I think it must have been done at Dunkerque. And next to it I recognize the tower of the port of La Rochelle."

"I see mon prince, mon prince that there is nothing to teach you. I see only one thing, that to your title and quality of prince and scholar, must be added that of 'wizard.'" G. Chardin in Putnam's Weekly.

The Berry He Was.

When Bishop Berry of the Methodist Episcopal church was a young preacher he once gave a lecture in a rural community. Wanting to be witty, he alluded to his own youth in saying:

"A berry and called upon them to state what kind of berry. Nearly every berry in the vicinity was guessed, and the speaker refused to accept the qualities of any of those named. At last an old lady who was not sympathetic with the smiling levity of the lecturer arose and exclaimed in a squeaky voice: 'I know what kind of a berry you are. You are a gooseberry, and a very green one at that. Go on with the lecture.'"

Animal Shell.

It is a curious fact that the shells of certain animals, such as cephalopods, brachiopods and some bivalves, are constantly undergoing changes as age advances. "The old man returns to second childhood in old and body," states a well known scientist at Washington.

"The shell of the cephalopod has in old age, however distinct and highly ornamented the adult, very close resemblance to its own young."

He wore safety to himself when the porter came to break him down.

He was sorry now that he had arranged to stop over on his business. He was sorry that he was not going straight through for he had told him she was to be on the train with him.

GEN. LEE'S CENTENARY IN FASHION'S REALM

CELEBRATION OF 100TH BIRTH-DAY HELD AT RICHMOND, VA.

A Wonderful Eulogy of the Dead Confederate General Even From the Lips of a Friend—Short Sketch of the Career of a Leader For the South in the American War of Rebellion.

General Robert E. Lee

He was a few without hate, a friend without treachery; a soldier without enmity, a victor without oppression. He was a victim without murmuring, a Christian without hypocrisy, and a man without guile. He was a Caesar without his ambition, a Frederick without his selfishness, a Napoleon without his selfishness and Washington without his reward. Benjamin Hill.

On the 19th January, the centenary of the birth of General Robert E. Lee was observed with celebrations in all parts of the Southern States, the chief celebration being at Richmond, Va.

After passing through West Point brilliantly, he was attached to the personal staff of Gen. Scott, the victor of the battle of Bull Run.

It was in Mexico, however, that Lee won his first supreme distinction as a military engineer and a daring and gallant soldier. General Scott declared on numerous occasions after the close of the war that without the assistance of the resourceful Virginian he could not have won such a victory.

The highest appreciation of Lee's official record after the war was given by the highest official of the United States. General Grant, who was then in command of the army, declared: "As distinguished for his military execution as for his science and daring." That Lee's talents were recognized by the old warrior is evident from the fact that he was sent a dispatch in which his favorite name was not mentioned. More than that, he was then in command of the army.

He was a few without hate, a friend without treachery; a soldier without enmity, a victor without oppression. He was a victim without murmuring, a Christian without hypocrisy, and a man without guile. He was a Caesar without his ambition, a Frederick without his selfishness, a Napoleon without his selfishness and Washington without his reward. Benjamin Hill.

SKATING COSTUME FOR GIRLS WHO LOVE THIS SPORT.

A Color That is Especially Becoming Should Be Selected—Decorative Make-Up Most Attractive Combined with Effective Trimmed With Black.

Now that the skating season is here it behooves every lover of this sport to procure at once a smart skating costume, provided that this gown was not purchased some time since in order to be ready for the first real freezing spell. It's every bit as essential to have a skating costume perfect in its way as it is to possess the correct style of dress.

In the greatest mistake to think that any old dress will pass muster simply because it is to be put to hard use. Decorative make-up is a most attractive color that is especially becoming should be selected, for it is the only way to make a skating costume perfect in its way as it is to possess the correct style of dress.

"Much Ado About Nothing."

It is rather painful to take notice of the way some Eastern newspapers belabor their columns with elaborately headed, frantically worded, sensationally intoned articles regarding affairs in this part of Canada. In justice to the papers that give the situation a reasonable criticism, we had better refer more directly to the ones that appear to be most excited over the matter. The following are some of the headings we have read this week: "The Unfortunate West," by the Toronto Globe; "West Facing Disaster, Situation Is Desperate," Toronto Mail and Empire; "Chaos in the West" Mail and Empire; "Business Paralyzed," Toronto Globe. If Shakespeare were on the scene to-day he would not have to draw upon his imagination for the construction of a play, "Much Ado About Nothing"; all that would be necessary would be to draw a pen picture from real life of an over-ardent scribe, shaking and shivering, with nerves unstrung, from fear that the end of the world were near, because in these provinces a C. N. R. train, with dilapidated engine, had stuck in a snow bank not very long after April Fool's Day.

We know that the eyes of the universe are today upon Central and Western Canada, and every occurrence here receives more attention than the happenings in less fortunate and less prosperous places, but we fail to see what satisfaction it can be to anyone to paint as black as possible a picture of everything that is not quite satisfactory in this country. There is one consolation, however, that the reason our affairs engross the minds of outsiders so much is that we are in the most prosperous part of Canada in the most prosperous period the country has ever experienced.

We have matters to complain of occasionally, like every other part, and the chief difficulty of late has been that these provinces are going ahead so rapidly that the supplying of facilities cannot keep up to the pace. If the country were poor and the people impoverished, then there would be ground for restlessness, but that we should be reckoned "unfortunate" or in "chaos" is, to say the least, not in line with the facts.

It is true we have had a few recent snowfalls that did not amount to a great deal, notwithstanding the statement of one of the aforementioned contemporaries, that "the entire country was again enveloped in snow." We do not wish to make retaliatory statements, but we have seen in Eastern Canada a blizzard of a few hours tie up the railroads for days and even weeks. Although the East does not grow as rapidly as the West, and although they have down there every opportunity of fitting their equipment, we have seen the railroads so blocked there by a flurry of snow, that even on the main line train service would be demoralized. Traffic has been gradually improving here during the past few weeks, although very slowly on one of the roads, and the greatest drawback now is that navigation on the lakes is late. It is true, we have a strike in the Western coal mines, but the situation is not so serious, and not likely to be so awful as the hasty newspaper state. The strike has been in effect only a few days, and the belief is that a settlement will be effected in a few more days if not before this goes to press. We have known of lengthy and very troublesome strikes in the mines of the Eastern provinces, without so much fuss being made about them. As a matter of fact, the East is hardly ever without a more or less serious strike of some kind.

All that we want is a fair criticism of this part of Canada, and we think a law should be put in force to prevent newspaper reporters from having quite so free a license in making statements that tend to injure the interests of a community. Commercial

Bread from Brick-Bats.

If somebody should announce that he had discovered a substance which, sprinkled upon a peck of builders' sand, would change it into a dozen dozen glass tumblers, we wonder if the daily papers would proclaim the discovery in all seriousness and print two-column pictures of the discoverer, as they are doing of John Elmore, the alleged discoverer of a compound which, sprinkled upon ashes, "causes them to burn with a fiercer heat than the best bituminous."

John is "no illiterate" one of the articles states, "that he is compelled to seek assistance in writing to drug houses for his ingredients," but in our opinion John knows a good deal more than the newspaper man who prints John's portrait on the front page of a metropolitan daily, with a two-line title, turn-over story full of rot as: "He has without doubt or question created a chemical compound which is bound to have a tremendous effect on coal production so long as coal is used for fuel." "He has not even an elementary knowledge of organic chemistry, and yet he has discovered a combination which the most eminent chemists in the world have been seeking for years."

We say "knows more" because it could not be that the publishers of such papers, knowing better, would let such misleading twaddle appear in their reading columns even for money.

Of course, the man has not invented nor found anything of the kind. Ashes, except for the most common use of unburned coal absolutely removed with them are unsuitably incombustible. If John has found anything outside of carbon or hydrogen or some of their compounds which will burn, he might as well use sand or anything else for a brick as ashes and save buying the initial coal. The announcement that such a substance, commercially available, had been discovered, would be equivalent to the announcement of the discovery of another continent on this much explored sphere.

The only harm that comes from such articles as these aside from making their promoters and publishers ridiculous, is the divorcing of still more ignorant and trusting dupes from their good money through the alleged discovery receives from such a presentation.

Rush from Western States.

"To the Canadian Northwest" is the cry of hundreds of families of Nebraska, Kansas, and Iowa farmers, and the movement of emigrants from these States to Western Canada will this spring surpass any similar movement in the history of the West. In fact, so great has the movement towards Canada become in the past two years that the State of Iowa has had no increase, in its population during that time, the credit for this condition being given to the power of Canada to draw more people away from Iowa than come to that State from Eastern States.

And the class of people thus moving to Canada is of the very best, those who go into Canada are all well supplied with cash, the average, according to emigration agents, being supplied with no less than $8,000 each. By far the larger number of emigrants from Iowa and Nebraska are farmers who have sold their farms in this country and who wish to get into a country of cheap lands. Many of these men once "homesteaded" Government lands west of the Mississippi River, and by Government laws, are prevented from taking another homestead in the United States even if desirable land of this character could be found.

"There has never yet been such a rush for Canadian lands as we are having this spring," says W. V. Bennett, Canadian Government Agent at Omaha. "There are some good ruckies in their years, but nothing like the one we will have this spring and summer. We will send, through the Omaha agency, 350 cars within the next six weeks or two months, and each car represents from seven to eight people. You can figure that out yourself and see that, just from our present bookings, we will have more than 2,000 people going from this territory into Canada before the first of May."

General Rules for Road Work.

Some excellent general rules are laid down by a prominent authority on highways, as follows:—

"1. The steepness of hills should not exceed a rise of one foot in twelve.

"2. The roadway graded for traffic should be in the center of the road allowance, and should have a uniform width of 24 feet between the inside edges of the open ditches.

The width of roadway on cuts and fills should not be less than 18 feet.

"3. Side slopes in cuts and fills should be one and one-half feet horizontal to one foot vertical.

"4. The crown given the newly finished roadway should be uniform and have a rise of one inch to the foot from the edge of the ditch to the center of the road.

"5. When gravel or broken stone is used, it should be placed to a width and depth sufficient to form a serviceable road, having due regard to the character and extent of traffic.

"6. The gravel or broken stone should be preferably obtained in the vicinity of the road, but must be of good quality.

"7. As a rule, the gravel or broken stone should not be of less width than 8 feet, nor of less depth in the center than 9 inches.

"8. Where roads have heretofore had gravel or broken stone placed on them, they should be repaired by cutting off shoulders, shaping with a grader, and adding a sufficient amount of gravel or broken stone to fill ruts, depressions, properly crown and make a road sufficiently strong to accommodate the travel.

"9. The gravel or broken stone placed on any road should be thoroughly rolled, otherwise the grade should be maintained by careful raking or scraping until compacted by traffic.

"10. An open drain should be made at each side of the road, and given a sufficient fall to a free outlet.

"11. Durable alcoves and culverts should be built when necessary.

"12. The underdrains should be laid, so as to carry away excessive subsoil water, lower the water line, and secure a dry roadbed wherever a moist, damp or springy condition of the subsoil exists.

"13. Modern machinery and implements should be used as far as possible, to secure the greatest results from the expenditures, and to provide the best work."—Municipal News.

TEES.

There were some fine big cattle shipped from here on Monday, April 29th. Mr. R. A. Begg of High River, has bought over $20,000 worth of cattle in this district during April.

There is to be another big shipment of cattle the middle of May.

In future there will be an outward and inward daily mail at the Tees post office. Head quarters have recognized that this is necessary in a town growing so quickly as Tees.

Among those present at the "At Home" held at the residence of Mrs. J. B. Bellhouse, on Friday, April 26, were: Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bellhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Wetherell, Mr. and Mrs. John Craik, Mr. and Mrs. Craner, Mr. and Mrs. Ardley, Mr. and Miss Fry, Miss McIntyre, Miss L. and D. M. Carter, Miss K. Collinson, Miss Pearl Lawson, Miss E. Hoffman, Miss Blanche McMillan, Mr. H. Craner, Mr. P. Walters, Mr. W. J. Collinson, Mr. S. W. Moore, Mr. R. Arton, Mr. R. Lawson, and Messrs. S. J. and W. J. Carter.

The programme of music was excellent, while the readings and recitations caused great amusement. Lunch was served about 10:30 p.m. It was very gratifying that the object of the "At Home" was gained; the church organ was paid for and a reserve established for the decoration of the church. The party broke up about 2 o'clock a.m., after a most enjoyable and instructive evening.

The Rev. Bradshaw will now preach at the church. While the people will give the Rev. Bradshaw a hearty welcome, they will at the same time be sorry to lose Mr. Fry who has now been preaching at Tees for some time.

It seems as if Old Nick's to pay. When I hitch up that little grey. For every one must have a say. Some think the little chap can go. While others say he is too slow. meeting last year will no doubt lead to make this year's meeting
most successful, and the fact that a circuit has been formed for this part of Alberta, will bring a number of good horses to the meet which would not otherwise come.Celebration at Blackfalds.Blackfalds will hold a grand celebration on Victoria Day, May

a. m., with a baseball match. A football match will take place at yards race, girls' 50 yards race, ladies' 50 yards race, men's 3-legged race, boys' 3-legged race, (under 12). A good program of horse races in the evening. Good prizes in all events.Death of Mrs. Buckley.Mrs. Catherine Regina Buckley, wife of Cornelius Buckley, of Pleanant Valley, died on April 26th, after a short illness, at the age of 47 years. She leaves a husband and 7 children, ranging from 8 to 24 years of age, to mourn her demise. The sympathy of their many friends and neighbors is extended to the bereaved family.Baseball Season Opened.On Friday afternoon the first baseball match of the season took place, between Nanton St. and Barnett Ave. nines, and as a matter of course, Nanton Street came out on top.It was a hot game from start to finish. Offsides were numerous, and the half backs showed poor combination work. Alf Kent bowed for the Barnett avenue aggregation, and succeeded in stump-ing several of the players, and Dr.

Gilmour made an ideal wicket keeper for the same bunch. C.
Danner twirled the ball for Nanton street Stars and F. McLeur in-gled made some brilliant stops.
Joe Gourlay made a good rover
and was ably checked by Fred Fletcher. It is the unanimous opinion of all the players that Joe McLeur was simply rotten as an umpire, and some of his decisions called forth howls of anger from the excited spectators. Constable Webster also came in for abuse.
McLeur stole second base and was not arrested as he should have been in a charge of petty larceny.

The line up was as follows:

Nanton St. McLeur, c.; Danner, p.; Craig, 1st b.; Graham, 2nd
b.; Finchem, 3rd b.; G. Holston, 3rd b.; Marquand, c. F. Standish, c. F.

Graham, 1st b. nines.Some Fine Horses.A. G. Edwards arrived in town on Sunday from the U. S., with a carload of purebred stallions—Percherons and Belgians. In the shipment are 4 imported Percherons, ranging from three to four years of age, and one Belgian, 3 years old.
The balance of the shipment is composed of four American bred Percherons. The animals are beautiful specimens of horseflesh
and weigh from 1800 to 1900 lbs.
They are all registered purebred.
The Belgian horse is a splendid animal and the first of his kind ever brought into this part of Alberta.Mr. Edwards intends to dispose of the horses in this district if possible, and is offering good terms to responsible parties. Three years time will be given. In addition to easy terms of sale, Mr. Edwards will carry half the risk of the animal for three years, and in case the animal dies within that time will replace it with a horse of equal value
for about half price paid.This shipment is an experiment on the part of Mr. Edwards. He intends if things go satisfactorily
to locate permanently in Lacombe.
The above animals may be seen at the Alberta Livestock Stables, and are well worth a visit from horsemen.A Couple of Good Ones.Mr. W. B. Freol, of Woodstock, Ontario, arrived in Lacombe on Saturday, with a couple of stallions which are hard to beat.One of the animals is an imported Clyd., four years old, and weighs in the neighborhood of 1800 pounds. He is a very fashionable animal, was purchased from one of the leading breeders in the Old Country, and came in for much complimentary criticism
from breeders across the water.
He was landed in Canada in February last. Horsemen should see this animal.The other horse is a Hackney, and is typical of this breed. He has lots of style and action. He cleaned up everything in the spring shows around Woodstock, and is considered to be one of the best in his breed.Mr. Freol will offer these animals for sale in this district, and broaders will do well to look these animals over. He is offering a square deal.Mr. Freol is a well known horse dealer in the east, and has a reputation for the class of stock he deals in.The animals may be seen at the Alberta Livestock Stables.The Signs Are Down.The Constable warned the various business establishments early this week that all signs over three feet long had to come down, and the order was obeyed with haste.
This is the first bylaw ever successfully enforced in Lacombe.
We congratulate the officials.Two Presbyteries Added.The synod of Alberta, which was in session in Calgary last week adjourned Saturday. Several very important things came up and two of the presbyteries in the synod were divided. This will make six presbyteries in the synod, as follows: Calgary, Edmonton, Red Deer, Vermillion, Macleod and High River. The new ones were Vermillion and High River, which were made up out of Edmonton and Macleod. An overture was also brought in to form each of the provinces of Alberta and British Columbia into a synod and the moderator of the synod will have his choice of the synods when formed. It was also decided to recommend the general assembly to give grants instead of loans to the churches when they are building. It was also recommended that there be a college established in connection with the new uni-versity at Stratheona and music and general public school subjects will be taken up there. The Ladies' college at Lebridge was also recommended for assistance from the general assembly for the period of three years at the rate of $800 per year. A religious paper will be started in western Canada.
The synod will meet in Edmonton next year, and the exact date will be chosen by the moderator.AROUND THE TOWN
